

AMENDMENTS

In the Claims:

Please add new claims 17-18 as follows.

53
17. (New) An apparatus for switching between a personal computer and a telephone, comprising:

a device connector for connecting said apparatus to said personal computer;

a telephone connector for connecting said apparatus to said telephone line;

a microphone connector for connecting said apparatus to said microphone; and

C¹
a switching circuit connected to said device, telephone and microphone connectors, said switching circuit connecting said telephone connector to said microphone connector in response to recognizing a first voice command, and said switching circuit connecting said microphone connector to said device connector in response to recognizing a second voice command.

18. (New) An apparatus as in Claim 17 wherein said switching circuit is included in a computer telephone integration (CTI) module.